CAMP SAY:

A Summer Camp for Young People Who Stutter

Builds Confidence,
Communication, and Community

A HOME FOR EVERY VOICE

Join us at Camp SAY, the world's largest summer camp dedicated to young people who stutter. Camp SAY is an American Camp Association (ACA)-Accredited, two-week sleepaway camp for kids and teens who stutter, along with their family members and friends who don't, ages 8–18. Young people from across the country and beyond attend camp year after year.

Campers develop the skills they need to communicate more effectively, build self-confidence, and form lasting friendships. Camp SAY combines an exceptional traditional camp experience with specialized programs and activities designed to meet each child's individual goals and needs. We offer sliding scale rates for Camp SAY, including assistance for travel. No child has been turned away from our programming due to a family's inability to pay.

"With the guidance, support, and love that was so very evident, we watched our son show a side of himself that we did not know he was capable of expressing. Camp SAY will benefit his self-esteem and growth for years to come."

— Camp SAY Parent

FROM A SAY PARENT

SAY has been an incredible lifeline for many years. As my son's fluency ebbs and flows through the various stages of life and with his ever-changing sense of self, we count on SAY. We count on SAY to be his safe harbor when facing internal storms. When self-doubt or shame begins to crush him, SAY is always there with open arms, reminding him that he is not alone in this life journey.

As a parent, it's heartbreaking to witness your son shut himself down to prevent emotional pain. A pain caused by his struggle to do something many take for granted. Due to our fast-paced world, most places seem like hostile environments to him. Lately, the stress of stuttering has extinguished his bright smile, clever personality, and funny expressions.

SAY's programming offers kids like my son a respite from the real world. It brings out his beautiful smile and optimistic voice, making a tangible difference in his life. With SAY's support, he feels deserving of the time he needs to speak. Raising a teenager who stutters to be a confident young adult excited about his future would be almost implausible for us without an organization like SAY.

We're so grateful.

"When I was younger, I never wanted to speak...I was afraid of what was going to come out and how people would interpret it, but now through SAY, I'm not scared to say what I have to say."

— SAY Camper

FEEL BRAVE AND FREE

Camp SAY provides truly unique experiences that safely challenge young people who stutter, fostering a strong sense of achievement. Campers join a special team (or two) and, led by our talented staff, collaborate on a confidence-building journey toward a group goal—such as a championship game, an exciting performance, or another empowering project.

Our team is fully committed to creating an unparalleled environment of acceptance and encouragement so that each child's time at Camp SAY becomes one of the most meaningful and rewarding experiences of their life. Parents and campers consistently share that Camp SAY builds self-esteem and gives young people who stutter the crucial tools they need to advocate for themselves in everyday life.

This free online program offers community, support, and creative workshops for young people who stutter worldwide.

SAY: SPEECH

SAY's speech therapy program is led by speech-language pathologist and board-certified stuttering specialist Brooke Leiman Edwards, MA, CCC-SLP, BCS-SCF. It embraces a holistic approach to stuttering therapy that addresses the individual needs and goals of each child and family. We currently offer speech services to families all over DC, MD, and NY, ages 3-18, at sliding scale rates.

CONFIDENT VOICES

Confident Voices is SAY's free award-winning Creative Arts Program that empowers, emboldens, and inspires young people who stutter, ages 8-18, in NYC. In this space, everyone has as much time as they need to speak, and everyone is encouraged to share their creative, unique, and extraordinary ideas and imagination.

SAY: DC

SAY: DC is a free, mixed-age, creative arts program focused on self-expression, collaboration, and connection for ages 5-18. SAY: DC programs leverage the power of listening, art-making, and community to open up new worlds of possibility for each participant. Most importantly, they are given the space to build confidence, communication skills, and lasting friendships.
